• Our Services

Our strengths and core capabilities are measured in relation to the pool of expert consultants we have. Our areas of work are derived from what we can do for our clients. We work with government institutions and humanitarian & development organizations in the sectors of health, nutrition, wash, food security/livelihoods, resilience/protection, re-integration of IDPs/refugees, education, governance and stabilization, and capacity building. In reference to these sectors, Researchcare engages in the following services:

(A) Third-Party Monitoring

Researchcare Africa designs customized monitoring frameworks and tools for data collection and information to support project implementers/partners and organizations. The framework is used for compiling project progress reports, and strategic and business plans.

(B) Programme Evaluations

Our teams are trained to undertake independent baseline, midline and endline evaluations so as to provide honest feedback on interventions in a realistic, prudent, diplomatic, cost-effective, and an ethical manner, which accounts for the best interests of stakeholders.

(C) Institutional Capacity Development

We assist organizations in wider areas of organizational development and strategic management, organizational capacity and risk assessment and management. Our approach to organizational development typifies a whole of organization approach, which assists decision-makers and stakeholders in understanding current challenges, requirements, and the means to address change.

(D) Research, Assessments and Analysis

Our researchers are qualified and have extensive knowledge and experience in research. These include general research, environment-related environment research, governance, organizational research and food security. We carry out scientific research that is objective and informative to address the client's needs within the set timeframe.

- A.1 Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA): Environmental Impact Assessment (EIA) is a critical examination of the effects of a project on the environment. An EIA identifies both negative and positive impacts of any development activity or project, and how it affects people, their property and the environment.
- A.2 Perception and satisfaction Surveys: Researchcare Africa has expertise in survey design and analysis, as well as in experimental approaches. Surveys provide powerful insights to policymakers, corporations, and non-governmental and other organizations seeking to determine the potential impacts of proposed or existing policies.
- A.3 Media monitoring & analysis: We offer comprehensive media monitoring and analysis across online news, social media, print, broadcast, and podcasts, capturing more content and conversations. Our comprehensive portfolio of media monitoring solutions that comprise social media analysis, social media research, and adverse event tracking augment quantitative data with qualitative insights to help you gain an edge by better understanding your customers.
- A.4 Political, social, and economic analysis: Researchcare Africa has extensive experience in the area of political economy analysis, policy research and effective programming, specifically in relation to good governance, democracy, the political economy of development, public service delivery and poverty alleviation.
- A.5 Advisory and policy analysis: With organizations and firms facing constantly changing policy requirements, it has never been more difficult to keep abreast of developments. Global corporations, NGOs, private companies and governments face complex decisions involving proposed legislation, regulations, and policy changes that affect their operations and partnerships.
